Thousands Dead In Pakistan Strife

By MYRON L. BELKIND
Associated Press Writer

NEW DELHI (AP) — United News of India reported thousands dead in fierce fighting in East Pakistan today and said West Pakistan-dominated army units were battling civilians in Dacca, the provincial capital.

The agency also reported that Lt. Gen. Tikka Khan, chief martial law administrator of East Pakistan, died of injuries received when supporters of the province's political leader, Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, stormed his residence in Dacca.

With tight censorship, there was no confirmation on any of the reports.

Radio Pakistan announced that Sheikh Mujib was under arrest, but monitors in India later reported the sheik broadcast which unconfirmed reports reaching India said was in control of the Sheikh's Awami League.

Sheik Mujib as saying he was in the port city of Chittagong, Noakhali districts.

"I am okay, comrades—go ahead with your program to achieve the goal of freedom," the broadcast said. "Do not be misguided by enemy propaganda."

Supporters of the 51-year-old Awami League leader had already denied the report of his arrest and Prime Minister Indira Gandhi suggested the report "might be just propaganda."

Second Day

United News said heavy fighting was raging throughout the province for the second straight day.

The Indian news agency said at least 50 persons were killed in Sandpur and that the streets of Rangpur were strewn with bodies of civilians.

A Radio Pakistan broadcast claimed the West Pakistan-dominated army was gaining the upper hand in its battle against East Pakistani loyalists and militiamen. It said martial law authorities in Dacca lifted for a nine-hour period from 7 a.m. local time today the 24-hour curfew imposed on the East Pakistan capital Friday.

United News reported from the Indian border town of Angartala that the army had occupied the headquarters of the East Pakistani Rifles, the provincial militia, in Comilla district after a prolonged fight. In another report from the eastern Indian state of Assam, it said that according to highly reliable reports from across the Pakistani border, at least 180 persons were killed early today in a clash between the army and East Pakistanis in the city of Comilla.

The army also was reported to have occupied police stations in the province, which is separated from West Pakistan by 1,000 miles of Indian territory.

Shortly afterwards, Pakistan President Mohammed Yahya Khan in a nationwide broadcast her government was considering some unspecified action in connection with developments there.

"It is not merely a suppression of a movement, but it is a crime which will not go unpunished," she told Parliament.

For several hours today, Indian monitors had not heard any broadcast from the clan-destine "Voice of Independent Bangladesh (Bengal Nation)," which was on the air intermittently in East Pakistan until late Friday. The radio, in announcing Sheikh Mujib's capture, said only that he was taken into custody at his home in Dacca but gave no other details.

Rahman

over a clandestine radio station that he was free and urged East Pakistanis to continue fighting for independence.

Radio Station

United News said a fight to control the Dacca radio station was raging and 2,000 persons had been killed on both sides in that battle.

It also reported Pakistani Air Force bombers destroyed a hospital in Dacca, killing most of the patients.

The government radio in West Pakistan claimed the situation in the eastern province, separated by 1,000 miles of India, was "well under control." It said the 24-hour curfew imposed in Dacca Friday had been lifted for nine hours.

Sheik Mujib said in another broadcast that he offered Pakistani troops safe conduct out of the eastern region if they laid down their arms but warned their safety would not be guaranteed if they resisted.

Dropping Bombs

The earlier broadcast claimed that the Pakistani air force was dropping bombs on "liberation fighters" and the army was using tanks.

Jury Starts Deliberating Manson Fate

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jurors in the Sharon Tate murder trial, after hearing dramatic defense pleas for mercy, were ordered by the judge to begin deliberations today on whether Charles Manson and three women codefendants should be sentenced to life imprisonment or death.

The judge's instructions to the jury came Friday after four defense attorneys pleaded for the lives of the defendants, stressing their youth, saying they were mentally ill and labeling the death penalty inhumane.

One attorney gave a detailed description of how the three women would be executed at San Quentin Prison's gas chamber should they be sentenced to death.

On Jan. 25 the jury convicted Manson, 36-year-old leader of a hippie-style clan, and three women followers for murder and conspiracy. Since then jurors have been hearing testimony to help them decide between death in the gas chamber and life imprisonment as the penalty.

The women defendants are Patricia Krenwinkel, 23, Leslie Van Houten, 21, and Susan Atkins, 22.

Auto Crash Kills 2 From Kaukauna

WRIGHTSTOWN — Two crash occurred on County Trunk U eight miles west of Green Bay when DeStarkey's car and a truck driven by David L. Spiegel, 28, of Little Suamico, collided. Spiegel was not in the victims as David R. Massey, 20, 212 Hendricks Ave., and William E. Lenhart, 21, 144 McKinley St.

Officers said their car left the pavement and was ripped apart. It crashed through a grove of trees. Police were unable to determine which of the two men had been the driver. They said a one tree was nicked about six feet above the ground by the car.

The pair had been traveling in the same direction as a car driven by Gary L. Allen, 20, of Wrightstown, police said, and the two cars collided while passing. Allen was not injured. Massey was the son of Mrs. Mitchell Merrier and Lenhart the son of Wilbert Lenhart.

Supply Route Bombardment Stepped Up

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers stepped up their attacks on North Vietnamese supply routes today as American artillery pounded enemy troop positions along the southern edge of the demilitarized zone.

In the south, Viet Cong terrorists struck on the outskirts of Saigon and Da Nang. A grenade hurled into a government office building killed three civilians and wounded 10 others.

Military sources said that the B52, used for tactical support to their campaign in Laos, are shifting their attacks back to the mountains north of the DMZ.

Meanwhile, U.S. 175mm guns and 8-inch howitzers shelled North Vietnamese troops recently deployed further south in the DMZ.

The U.S. Command said that a forward air controller directed artillery onto enemy positions spotted four miles northwest of Gio Linh, the eastern end of the 40-mile-long DMZ.

Fifteen North Vietnamese troops were killed and nine bunkers were destroyed, the command said.

Pressure Builds For Freeing of James Hoffa

Parole Board to Consider Release in Jury Tampering Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reliable Justice Department sources report that because of heavy political pressure the odds now favor freedom for Teamsters President James R.

Hoffa

Hoffa when the question of his release from prison comes before the federal parole board next week.

The board is scheduled to meet here Wednesday to study the Hoffa case, the sources said, the Justice Department will offer no opposition to a parole.

An official Justice Department spokesman, Robert L. Stevenson, branded the reports "absolutely and totally inaccurate," and said, "Any report that he will or will not be paroled is premature and based on uninformed information."

However, other sources said Friday the pressure to release the 58-year-old union leader has been building for months. As early as last January one source reported, "Unless something happens to dampen this thing, Hoffa is going to get out, take over the union, take over the pension fund and be right back where he was before."

Hoffa has been in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., since 1967 serving an eight-year sentence for jury tampering. In January, the Supreme Court upheld a second five-year sentence given Hoffa for mail fraud.

Under the terms of the jury tampering sentence, Hoffa was not eligible for parole until he served one-third of the term, a point he reached last October. At that time, the parole board denied his petition for freedom and set next Wednesday as a date for rehearing the case.

Clerics Called Upon to Join Drug Abuse Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has turned to the nation's religious leaders for help in combatting the spread of drug abuse.

"If there's an answer to it, you have it," he told them Friday in an unusual White House gathering of most of America's top denominational officials.

It was the first time the Nixon administration had called in a full cross-section of religious leadership—Protestant, Roman Catholic, Orthodox and Jewish—to enlist cooperation on a major national problem.

The clerics said it had not happened since the late President John F. Kennedy called in religious leaders to muster their support for civil-rights legislation.

Many of them voiced keen approval of Nixon's initiative for such joint efforts and expressed hope for continued and widened dialogue between government and churches.

Crisis of the Times "It is a basic implementation of the President's recognition of the spiritual character of the crisis of our times," said the Rev. Dr. A. Dale Fiers, chief executive of the Christian Church (Disciples).

The approximately 80 church leaders spent all day hearing reports from half a dozen government officers in addition to the President, including Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George W. Romney.

The head of the armed forces office of information, John C. Broger, said the drug problem threatens the world with its "worst crisis in a thousand years."

Nixon called it basically a spiritual problem and told the churchmen "we have to get at the cause of the frustration, anxiety or whatever it is that is leading the young to give up on the system" and turn to drugs.

"The spiritual needs of the individual have to be filled one way or another," he said. Nixon added that aside from government and educational efforts the churchmen bear a chief responsibility in dealing with the "heart of the problem."

Wiretap in Conspiracy Case Defended as Security Matter

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department says only the attorney general and the president—not the courts—have the information and judgment needed to decide on domestic wiretaps to protect the national interest.

The Justice Department filed papers in federal court in Chicago Friday defending electronic surveillance of an unindicted member of the left-wing Weatherman organization.

She is Miss Judith Clark, accused of conspiring to cross state lines to incite a riot in Chicago in October 1969. Her lawyer had asked the government to disclose any wiretapping of his client.

National Security In papers filed in District Court, Justice said wiretaps like the one used against Miss Clark are meant more to preserve national security than to obtain criminal convictions.

"This is so because serious interests of the national security cannot be adequately protected by criminal prosecution," it said.

"Thus when the president, acting through the attorney general, authorizes electronic surveillance in the interests of the national security, the primary purpose of such surveillance is necessary to gather intelligence information so that the executive may prevent irreparable damage to the national security from occurring."

Judgment to initiate a wiretap, the department said, "must rest on considerations of

Law Enforcement Grants Increased

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wisconsin is to receive more than $4.4 million in grants under the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, the Justice Department said Friday.

The state already has been authorized for $2.9 million of the allotment. Officials said $1.8 million is to be used for improved crime detection, and more than $2.3 million is for control of juvenile delinquency, and $400,000 for riot control.

The funds are to be distributed to state, county and municipal law enforcement agencies.

Commander Has Good Words for Soldiers

Recalcitrant Bravo Troop Leaves Border Area

YELLOW BRICK ROAD, Vietnam (AP) — The men of Bravo troop, who last week refused an order to advance down a highway near the Laotian border, are being transferred back to their parent unit "with their heads up and flags flying."

"They fought just like any American outfit should," said Lt. Col. Robert B. Osborne, commander of the 3rd Squadron, 5th Cavalry, who described the armored company's return to battle the past few days.

The 3rd Squadron took over Bravo troop after its 53 members refused to move out to retrieve some damaged equipment, claiming they would be risking an ambush.

No disciplinary action was taken against the men, but the troop commander was relieved for making what was called an "error in tactics." The troop was given a new commander and attached to the 3rd Squadron for reorientation.

Osborne said Bravo troop would return in a few days to the 1st Squadron, 1st Cavalry of the Americal Division.

On Thursday, Bravo troop got into one of the heaviest ground fights that American forces have faced since the beginning of the westward drive that set up the South Vietnamese campaign into Laos. Six men from Bravo and reinforcing elements of the 3rd Squadron were killed and five were wounded.

Osborne said that during the early stages of the fighting, a North Vietnamese soldier threw a hand grenade that landed at the feet of one of his lieutenants. A man from Bravo Company quickly picked it up and hurled it back, but the grenade exploded close by and the Bravo trooper was killed, Osborne said.

Bravo troop and its reinforcements reported killing 36 North Vietnamese from what they think was a reinforced sapper, or demolition, company.

Osborne said the fighting began when a dozen men from Bravo dismounted from their tanks and armored personnel carriers to sweep a valley just off the Yellow Brick Road, a trail cut by the cavalry through the jungled mountains from Khe Sanh to Emerald City, the Squadron's forward support base to the northwest.

Reinforcements

The Bravo patrol was hit, took casualties and fell back, unable to recover its dead and wounded. Reinforcements were moved up, and the men went back into the draw near a dry stream bed and were thrown back again with two more men killed.

They fought their way in a third time, trying to get the bodies out, and found a missing lieutenant they thought was dead. He was wounded in the leg and unable to walk.

"They started to take the lieutenant out of a litter," Osborne said, "but they came under fire again. They threw the litter away and took turns carrying the lieutenant up the side of the mountain to safety."

On Friday, Brig. Gen. John G. Hill Jr., commander of the 1st Brigade, 5th Mechanized Division, flew from Khe Sanh to Emerald City to pin medals on a dozen of the men who had taken part in the action. But when he got there, they were already back in the draw trying to recover the dead they had left behind and the awards ceremony had to be postponed.

Capt. Adolph Borysco, of Colorado Springs, Colo., Bravo's new commander, praised the unit.

"I seldom had a troop which had higher morale than this. I couldn't ask for a better troop," he said.

Neenah captured the first indoor meet title in 1963. No record fell.

Manitowoc finished at the top with 49 points, while a game Sheboygan Falls squad took home the second place trophy with 27 points. Beaver Dam was third with 27; Neenah took fourth with 17, and Kewaunee grabbed fifth on the strength of 14 markers.

San Francisco Confident

Bucks, Warriors Ready to Open NBA Playoff Series

OAKLAND (AP) — Even the schedule maker must think the San Francisco-Milwaukee National Basketball Association playoff series will be a quickie. The seventh and deciding game of the series, if necessary, will be played April 8, two days after the latest closing date of any other first round series.

Bucks on TV

Channel 2 television will broadcast tonight's Milwaukee Bucks-San Francisco Warrior National Basketball Association playoff game beginning at 10 p.m.

WBAY-TV picked up the broadcast because of the Rawhide television pre-empting the regular schedule on WLUC-TV.

But the Milwaukee Bucks, led by NBA Most Valuable Player Lew Alcindor, are expected to win the best-of-7 set in short order and get adequate rest before facing Los Angeles or Chicago in the Western Conference finals.

The Bucks beat the Warriors in all six of their regular season games, and Coach Larry Costello's team won the Mid-West Division title with the best record in the league, 66-16.

"I guess it sounds ridiculous for me to say we'll beat them, but I honestly believe it," said guard Jeff Mullins of the Warriors, who finished 41-41 and second in the Pacific Division.

"Remember, back in 1968 we'd lost seven of eight to St. Louis during the regular season but beat them in the playoffs," Mullins said.

Two years ago, the last time San Francisco was in the playoffs, the Warriors won their first two games against division winner Los Angeles. But Mullins, a scoring star in the opening games, was then injured and the Lakers took the next four games.

The Warriors' 6-foot-11 center, Nate Thurmond, has done a good job on the 7-2 Alcindor this season. Alcindor led the league with a 31.7 point average, but he scored only 26.7 per game against the Warriors, with a high of 34.

The Warriors, however, couldn't match the Bucks' scoring balance.

"A lot of teams try to go to just one man when they need points badly. The Bucks can go to almost anyone," says Coach Al Attles of San Francisco.

Oscar Robertson, Bob Dandridge and Jon McGlocklin all averaged 18 points or more this season against the Warriors.

The second and third games of the playoff series will be Monday and Tuesday nights in Madison, Wis. The fourth game will be here next Thursday night.

Both Rocket relay teams garnered third spots as Greg Schaller, Bob Heidke, Randy Wild and Lyle Pingle stepped off a 1:18.6-clocking in the 4-lap event, and Schaller, Nate Carlson, Pingle and Karl Huppler ran 3:45.8 in the 10-lap.

Gullickson Fourth Don Gullickson gave Neenah two points with his fourth-place finish in the 800 (2:05.2), and Heidke placed fifth in the 60-yard dash (6.9 seconds) for one point.

Kimberly's Jim Rooyackers and John Appleton, both members of the Papermaker basketball team, sailed over the bar at 5 feet, 10 inches for third and fourth-place points in the high jump, while Mike Van Beek picked up a fourth in the shot put with a heave of 49 feet, 4 inches. (Kewaunee strongboy Jack Novak won the shot at 52 feet, 3 3/4 inches).

New London, weakened by the absence of spring star Robbie Slosarek who is on the shelf with a pulled hamstring, got fourth places in the 60-yard dash and 60-yard high hurdles for its only points. Len Vollmer sped the former race in 6.8 seconds, and Cal Handschke covered the distance in the latter in 8.55 seconds.

Chilton's two points resulted from a fourth place in the 4-lap relay. Jim Ratz, Gordon Grube, Ken Gasch and Rick Baltz combined for a time of 1:20.1 in the event, 2.3 seconds behind winning Manitowoc.

Kaukauna's single tally was registered by Rick Vandenberg in the shot put as he tossed the 12-pound, rubber-coated ball 49 feet, 1/2 inch.

Mays, McCovey Blast Giants to Win Over Padres

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The San Francisco Giants gave Tom Phoebus a case of the Willies—a widespread ailment peculiar to National League pitchers.

Phoebus, acquired by San Diego over the winter from Baltimore, can be excused for not knowing about the Willies. He's been in the other league. Now he knows.

After rookie Chris Spiernicked Phoebus for a first-inning single Friday, Willie Mays and Willie McCovey tagged long home runs, igniting the Giants' 4-2 victory over the Padres.

Elsewhere in exhibition baseball Friday, the New York Mets downed Minnesota 5-3, the Chicago White Sox blanked St. Louis 5-0, Cincinnati downed Boston 10-5, Washington nipped Kansas City 6-5, Houston defeated Montreal 8-4, the Chicago Cubs walloped Milwaukee 12-3, California took Oakland 4-2, Cleveland edged the Tokyo Orions 7-6, Detroit topped Philadelphia 10-9 and the New York Yankees shacked Baltimore 3-2.

Combine For Two Hitter
Given the early cushion provided by San Francisco's Willies, pitchers Steve Stone and Ron Bryant combined for a two-hitter against San Diego. Stone worked six innings and surrendered both Padre hits, one a two-run homer by Dave Campbell.

Mays' homer was his second this spring and McCovey's was his third.

Cleon Jones, missing from the Mets' lineup for a week because of a sprained back, returned with a bang, collecting three hits in New York's victory over Minnesota. Jones drove in three runs and rookie Tim Lincecum accounted for the other two.

Rick Reichardt ripped two singles and a homer in leading the White Sox past St. Louis. Lee Richard and Jay Johnstone drove in two runs apiece for Chicago.

Slugging Johnny Bench rifled a pair of two-run homers, keying Cincinnati's victory over Boston. Bench connected in the five-run third inning and then again in the fourth for the Reds. The Red Sox got a scare when Carl Yastrzemski suffered a pulled hamstring muscle. But Yaz is expected back in a day or two.

Mike Epstein smacked a single, double and homer and drew three walks as Washington defeated Kansas City. The Senators rallied for the winning runs on consecutive singles by Ed Stroud, Paul Casanova and Tom Rag and in the 11th inning after KC had gone ahead in the top half of the inning.

Montreal committed six errors and Houston scored five unearned runs to defeat the Expos. Joe Morgan's two-run double capped a tie-breaking four-run Astro rally in the eighth inning.

California bunched five singles for four runs in the first inning and whipped Oakland. Tony Conigliaro, Jim Spencer and Jim Fregosi had RBI-hits in the rally.

Rookie John Lowenstein cracked four hits and Cleveland came from behind with three runs in the seventh to defeat the Tokyo Orions. Roy Foster's single drove in the Indians' go-ahead run.

Firsov Leads Russian Win Over Sweden

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — Veteran Anatoli Firsov, a 30-year-old winger, fired four goals Friday night, leading the Soviet Union's National team to an 8-0 romp over Sweden in the World Hockey championships.

The victory gave the Russian skaters a two-point lead over the Swedes in the standings. The Soviets have won the tournament eight straight times.

In Friday's other game, Czechoslovakia overpowered Finland 5-0 to take over third place in the six-team tournament.

The tournament now moves to Geneva for rematches and continues until April 3.

Cager Signed $1 Million Denver Pact

Simpson's Family Still a Hardship Case

DETROIT (AP) — Ralph Simpson cut short his college basketball career to sign a $1-million "hardship" contract with the Denver Rockets but 10 months later his mother says the Rockets last May she and six brothers and sisters rule that barred the signing of players until after their college eligibility had ended.

Rockets owner Donald Ringsby justified the signing of Simpson under a "hardship clause" because, Ringsby said, "Ralph's mother is on aid to families with dependent children" and the family needed Simpson's help.

Simpson at first was jubilant about the signing and "the effect it will have on my family."

"We can have food in the house. . . we didn't even have that a couple of weeks ago," he said at the time. And I'd like to get them a new home. They've only got two bedrooms and when I come home there's no place to stay."

But the jubilation turned to disappointment.

"One of the first things I did was to scourge on clothes and buy a pink Eldorado," Simpson said later. "I thought I owed it to myself. I had worked hard, and now my work was finally paying off. Now, well, I look at the car and I don't even like it. I mean, I don't like what it represents."

Simpson's former coach at Detroit Pershing High School, Will Robinson, was against his signing. He felt Simpson was too young and didn't realize the value of money.

Simpson told he didn't fully understand the terms of the long-term contract.

Reached in Salt Lake City Tuesday before the Rockets' Utah game, Simpson said his contract "is set up so I receive most of the money between the ages of 40 and 60."

"I'm not sending my mother any money, because I get paid twice a month and it's just about enough to meet expenses with a little left over."

Simpson said he sent "a few dollars" to one of his brothers and a sister, when she graduated from high school. "But I fare regulations parents are responsible for their minor children right now. As much as I'd like to, I can't," he said.

Simpson did not disclose how much money he is paid twice a obligation to his family.

Coaches Meet

Rupp Embittered by Signing of Neumann

HOUSTON (AP) — Veteran Kentucky basketball Coach Adolph Rupp says his reaction to the reported signing of an undergraduate by an American Basketball Association team is one of "bitter disappointment."

Rupp commented on the report the Memphis Pros of the ABA were signing Johnny Neumann, the sophomore who was the NCAA scoring champion from Mississippi.

Rupp is the retiring president of the National Association of Basketball Coaches, which is meeting here this week in conjunction with the NCAA basketball championships.

Royal to Soeak
Darrell Royal, University of Texas football coach and athletic director, was to discuss recruiting problems at today's session.

Rupp said he believes Neumann has made a mistake.

"Johnny Neumann and I have been personal friends," he said. "I had hoped he would remain in our conference. He is truly a great athlete and I am sorry to see him take this route."

Signing a Trend?
"I am hopeful this is not a trend because I have assurances from Walter Kennedy (the National Basketball Association commissioner) they would not violate their agreement with the coaches association."

"Jack Dolph (the ABA commissioner) told me the same thing and put it into writing. I am bitterly disappointed that the ABA is raiding colleges, because that is not in the true spirit of collegiate athletics and I do not believe pro athletics will survive if these rules on the college (undergraduates) continue."

Mixed Bonspiel Under Way at the ACC

The Appleton Curling Club's annual 3-day intra-club mixed bonspiel is now going on.

The finals are set for 1:30 p.m. Sunday. The public is being invited to witness the action.

novas' scrappy Wildcats, also should be strong next season. Wildcat coach Jack Kraft gets back his backcourt duo of 6-foot-3 sophomore Tom Ingelsby and 6-5 junior Chris Ford.

Even more important, rugged 6-7, 230-pound Hank Siemionkowski returns.

The Philadelphia junior blistered Western Kentucky with his outside shooting in the NCAA semifinals, scoring 31 points before he fouled out. He hits 20-footers with a soft touch of a much smaller man.

Western Kentucky is hard hit by graduation, but returns two excellent starters in 6-2 guard Rex Bailey and 6-5 forward-center Jerry Dunn.

Semifinalist Kansas also returns three class players for 1972, including guards Bud Stallworth, Aubrey Nash and Bob Kivisto.

Only 'Benign Concern'

Head of NCAA Plans No Fight With Pros Signing Collegians

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA, says he has no plans to fight the pros if they continue to sign collegians who have not completed their collegiate eligibility.

Byers said he had only "benign concern" for a recent federal ruling that labeled unconstitutional the NCAA's rule prohibiting a player from continuing his college athletic career after signing a pro contract.

The ruling already has resulted in the signing of collegiate basketball's leading scorer this season, sophomore Johnny Neumann of Mississippi by the Memphis pros for an estimated $2 million.

"I don't propose to fight it at all," Byers said Friday. "I've had proposals that we go down to Congress and fight this thing, but we're not about to do that. I don't think we ought to fight."

"We've made a lot of millionaires in pro football and basketball and we will be here later to make more," Byers said. "If they (pros) want to hurt us by signing our players, that's their business."

Byers said if a player under financial hardship felt it in his best interest to sign a pro contract, he could see the temptation "You start putting enough zeroes on those contracts and you can't turn them down."

Byers said the entire device for signing undergraduates, was a pro plan.

"We have no rule to keep a student athlete from signing a pro contract," Byers said. "But when he does sign with the pros, he forfeits his college eligibility. And if a player participates after signing such a contract, his team's games are forfeited."

Although Byers said he had other things that worried him more than the pro situation, he didn't let the pros off without a few verbal blasts.

"The pros say they are signing these players to help the colleges," Byers said. "I say it is an economic armlock on the athlete. With one or two exceptions, I've never seen any pro feel any concern for college athletics."

Hardship Cases

Byers said the pros started signing student athletes as hardship cases.

Rosewall, Ashe Move Into Semifinals of Sportface Tennis Meet

EVANSTON, ILL. (AP) — Two Australian veterans, top-seeded Ken Rosewall, won quarterfinal matches Friday night in the $50,000 Sportface International Tennis Tournament.

Newcombe advanced with a 7-6, 6-1 triumph over Andre G. men of Spain and Rosewall defeated Cliff Drysdale of South Africa 3-6, 6-1, 6-2.

The pair will meet in one of Saturday's semifinal matches. The other semifinal will pit Arthur Ashe of Miami, Fla., against Tom Okker of Holland.

"But I notice their concern ends when they sign the player," Byers said. "They merge (referring to pro football) the prices go down and they go back to the reserve clause."

Byers said he hoped the federal judge who rules against the NCAA's eligibility rule would take a look at the draft and reserve clause.

Study Indicates Average Family Spending in Area

Is the average Outagamie County family spending more money for its daily living than families in other areas with similar incomes? How about those in Calumet, Waupaca and Winnebago Counties?

How closely does the local spending pattern conform to the guideline budget set up by the Bureau of Labor Statistics?

The amount of money a family needs — for food, shelter, medical care, clothing and the like — is subject to the living costs prevailing in its community.

For food, for example, the American Institute of Public Opinion recently reported, on the basis of a poll, that the typical nonfarm family in the East now spends $8 more a week than its Midwestern counterpart and $5 more than similar families in the West.

The spending picture in Outagamie County, according to the most recent findings shows food stores getting an average of $22 per week per local family.

This is more than is being spent per family in many parts of the country, especially the nonurban areas.

The figures apply to the average family. Those with special needs or wants spend more for food than others, adjusting their remaining expenditures accordingly.

In areas where consumer spending is at a high level, the answer lies in the fact that incomes there are generally at a better level and, consequently, people can afford to spend more.

Just how much is needed to maintain a typical urban family of four on a moderate scale and how much is actually available for spending, after payment of personal taxes, are revealed in figures from the Bureau of Labor Statistics and the Standard Rate and Data Service.

For those families with net earnings of approximately $9,800 a year, which is close to the Outagamie County average, the BLS budget estimates about 27 percent of it is spent for food, 20 percent for housing and 19 percent for clothing and personal care.

The remainder is apportioned among such other needs as transportation, medical costs, education, and Social Security.

A rural Weyauwega mother and her son were taken by Larry's Ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital, Appleton, Friday afternoon after their car was struck by a vehicle that went through a stop sign at U.S. 10 and Casaloma Drive, west of Appleton.

Outagamie County Police said Karen A. Koehler, route 2, suffered bumps, bruises and a possible arm injury while her son, Gregory, 5, had a head injury. The Koehler car was westbound on 10 when it was struck by a car driven by Mearl D. Allen, 62, route 1, Shuoncton, who police said went through a stop sign while northbound on Casaloma.

Damage to the two autos totaled $3,000, police estimated.

McDaniels Going Wherever Money Is in Pro Basketball

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Jim McDaniels, who this season led Western Kentucky University to its most successful basketball season ever, will ask for $2.2 million to sign a professional basketball contract, according to published reports.

McDaniels, who closes his collegiate career when WKU plays Kansas for third place in the NCAA tournament today, is expected to sign a professional contract next week, according to the Louisville Courier-Journal.

The paper said in its Saturday editions it is believed the American Basketball Association Carolina Cougars had acquired draft rights to McDaniels from the Utah Stars, who drafted him.

The 7-foot center said he believed he would be drafted by the NBA's Phoenix Suns during the NBA draft Monday.

"I'm going wherever the bread's at, whether it be Carolina or Phoenix," McDaniels said.

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif. and Rosemary Casals of San Francisco won their way into the finals of a women's tennis tournament Friday night for the seventh time in 10 tour stops.

Mrs. King, who has won seven of the tournaments and has beaten Miss Casals all six times they have met in the finals, defeated Mrs. Ann Haydon Jones of England 6-2, 7-6 in a semifinal match, sweeping the best-of-5 tie-breaker in the second set 5-0.

Miss Casals routed Francoise Durr of France 6-1, 6-2 and will face Mrs. King Saturday night for the $5,000 first prize in the $15,000 Virginia Slims Invitational Tournament.

Ray Bonfigt slammed a 603 series to head scores in the Fish Couples League at Super Bowl. Joe Seif rapped 229-590, while George Hanlon came in with 580.

The comic Couples League at 41 Bowl saw Clarence Brasch fire a 581 series. Betty Rohm and Irene Genett rolled 539 sets, as the latter included a 201 in the second period on a goal game. Viv Huisman had the high women's game of 219.

Tommy Williams of the Seals also scored twice, and other California counters were turned in by Joe Hardy, Gerry Ehman and Tony Featherstone.

In the Buffalo cliff-hanger, Canuck goalie George Gardner, who blocked 41 Sabre sallies, was nursing a 1-0 lead when Phil Goyette got past him midway through the third period to tie it up. Only 18 seconds later Gerry Meehan sank another to put the Sabres in front.

Gil Perreault shot the length of the rink into an empty Canuck net to score the third Sabre tally when Gardner was lifted.

Vancouver had taken the lead in the second period on a goal by Mike Corrigan.

School Aids Proposals Hit

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Educators from throughout the state demonstrated to the Legislature's Joint Finance Committee Friday that the governor's proposed budget for the state Department of Public Instruction (DPI) gives them emotional problems as they review the effect on their own school district's budgets.

The proposal that calls for an increase in state funding of $135 million came under fire as school administrators attacked the governor's proposal to cut the 70 per cent state reimbursement of the cost of hiring psychologists and social workers, except for those in special classes; his plan to have local districts pick up the $64 million cost of the teachers' retirement plan; and his revised school aid formula.

Nearly 50 educators testified, and twice that number support arguments. David Grimm, president of the Wisconsin Taxpayers' Conference, told the committee he endorsed the retirement shift as a proposal that would show the local taxpayers what teachers actually are earning.

The most vocal and organized opposition spoke to Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's recommendation that the reimbursement for the cost of specialists in psychology and social work be limited to those employed to work directly with the educationally disabled in special classes. Lucey based his recommendation on the fact that the law creating the program was designed to provide the services to those in special classes, but its interpretation and administration had been expanded to support all such specialists.

Help to Handicapped
Douglas Ritchie, superintendent of the Madison Public Schools, told the committee that the trend in helping the educationally handicapped is now toward integrating such students with other students and that the governor's rationale would deprive these "integrated" children of the services they need in order to be permitted to continue in regular classrooms.

The governor's proposal, Ritchie said, would cost the Madison public schools $110,000 a year in lost reimbursements that probably could not be afforded by the district.

A spokesman for the school psychologists' organization, James Buckley, told the committee that 75 per cent of the Cooperative Educational Services Agency (CESA) districts who now hire specialists to share among member districts could not afford the loss of funds and that the programs would undoubtedly be dropped.

Rep. Larry Swoboda, D-Luxemburg, a teacher in the Southern Door school district, attacked the broad range of proposals made by the governor that would result in four-fifths of the schools in Door County losing aids. "Once you take the aids away, the services are never brought back," he said, referring to the psychologists and social workers as well as the other programs he predicted on, on, on. "I can't find the other programs to be cut from area schools."

$3.8 Million Cut
The change in policy would result in a cut of $3.8 million from the DPI request of $8.6 million for psychologists and social workers.

The proposal to shift the burden of paying for the "employers' share" of the state teachers' retirement fund and of school lunch programs; re-social security benefits from $4.4 million in funds to the state to the local districts; and a politically harmful idea that would hurt teachers throughout the state and a plan that would cost some districts excessive amounts.

Henry Weimlick, executive director of the Wisconsin Educational Television Association, told the committee, "44,000 teachers primarily violently oppose the fact that the employer's cost of retirement would be shifted to the local school districts." Weimlick predicted that 140 of the state's school districts would lose money because of the shift, despite the governor's proposal to increase state aids to local school districts.

Swoboda termed the proposal regressive because it adds more burdens to the property taxpayers.

Don't Decrease
Eric Becker of the Wisconsin Association of School District Administrators told the committee that letters and phone calls from his group's membership indicate, "We think the state's districts pick up the $64 million cost of the teachers' retirement plan should be increased rather than decreased" and that the retirement plan should not be shifted.

On the other side of the argument, David Grimm, president of the Wisconsin Taxpayers' Conference, told the committee he endorsed the retirement shift as a proposal that would show the local taxpayers what teachers actually are earning. "They don't recognize the very substantial amount of fringe benefits teachers get," Grimm said, when the state pays the sum out of general funds directly to the retirement fund.

As a lonely opponent to the school administrators, Grimm also endorsed Lucey's proposal to limit state school aids to those districts that have costs of 100 per cent of the state average per pupil cost rather than the present level to 110 per cent. The department had requested that support be restored to the 120 per cent level in force prior to the present biennium.

Economic Slowdown
"There has been much ado about austerity. I find little grounds to say this is an austere budget," Grimm advised, noting that private business has found it impossible to grant pay raises and embark on building programs during the present economic slowdown.

Charles Lewis, president of the Wisconsin Association of School Boards, argued that the 100 per cent limitation would penalize nearly 50 per cent of the school districts after many suffered when the formula was "eroded last year by 10 per cent."

A variety of small rural school district administrators told the committee they have costs that are beyond their control that make the limitation unreasonable. They cited large geographic areas and small populations that required large outlays for transportation as one responsibility that drives up costs.

Opposition to the governor's proposals was so unanimous and overwhelming that Donald Sigfried, a spokesman for the Elm Brook schools in Brookfield, laughed from the crowd as he shuffled through his notes. "We support the governor's proposal on, on, on. I can't find the one we support. I'm sure there was one," he said in frustration, unable to find it.

Rep. Dennis Conta, D-Milwaukee, criticized the school aid proposals for failing to recognize the improvements the governor's budget does provide. He cited the governor's proposal that the state pick up $2.2 million in the nonfederal costs of the state's school lunch programs; re-social security benefits from $4.4 million in funds to the state to the local districts; and a politically harmful idea that would hurt teachers throughout the state and a plan that would cost some districts excessive amounts.

Inefficiency, Indifference in County Welfare?

BY BILL KNUTSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Charges of inefficiency, indifference and understaffing were leveled Thursday night by critics of the Outagamie County welfare system.

Welfare officials, while rebutting some of the claims, said improvements are in progress, constructive and more change are contemplated.

Three officials of the Outagamie County Department of Social Services, a former supervisor with the agency and a with biased information that leads to inefficiently run welfare problems at the services to the community.

March meeting of the Outagamie County Democratic Party, Daniel Versteegen, a former caseworker supervisor with the county agency, contended that there have been some changes community and their needs this department to meet the agency cannot be permitted to "operate in a vacuum behind closed doors."

Versteegen, who is a social worker with Cooperative Educational Service Agency 9, also criticized Outagamie County. But Pirang said he was in the Board of Social Services, chairman of the Board of Social Services, said more welfare problems should be taken care of at the local level.

Versteegen recalled that under the family court in Wisconsin, he had degrees, he said, "being offered by the department." A Teacher Who Cares is a very special person. Just ask Jeff Sanderfoot, a pupil at Plamann School for trainable children. And he doesn't mind showing Miss Jenny Schuler, a student teacher, just how he feels about the fact that she takes all the time necessary to work with him individually. Jeff is one of 105 pupils at Plamann, which will be open to the public from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday. The nine-year-old school recently had an addition put on, providing room for younger children, and establishing a pre-academic department. The children attend the school for about 15 years. The curriculum has been developed so that they will take part in instructional and social activities which permit them to reach their maximum potential. Tours of the school will be offered during open house Sunday and the instructors will be present to answer questions. (Post-Crescent Photo by Robert V. Baeten)

Waupaca Unemployment Rate Increases

WAUPACA — The threat of unemployment became more acute for area residents Friday with the announcement by the Wisconsin State Employment Service that Waupaca County is among the 10 labor market areas in Wisconsin which have substantial unemployment, 6 per cent or more.

Waupaca County, which has a civilian work force of 16,000, had 1,020 persons unemployed on Dec. 31. In the past three months the percentage has grown to 7.2 per cent.

What Do We Do?
The question is, how long can we go on helping these people," one city official said. "The general relief budget has been small for most of us. What do we do after that money is gone?"

In the City of Waupaca, the number applying for general relief since the first of the year has doubled. There are now ten individuals and families receiving help from the city.

This past week the Waupaca City Council approved the hiring of three relief recipients on city pay for the month of April. Continuing this is hampered by two things. The limited budget of $3,000 for the year and the restriction at this time to find work to be done.

"The snow removal budget was cut," the city official said, "and we will have a difficult time finding work for the unemployed."

County Could Lose Aids Park Addition Can't be Used for Landfill

The future addition to Plamann School for trainable children could not be used as a landfill for the matching federal funds, as has been used several months ago in a county sanitary landfill. However, the school is not yet open and still only for state funds, then would have to be used for the same purpose.

'Welcome' Signs by Church Doors May Not Mean That

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

AP Religion Writer

The sign outside the church door, "Welcome," is a slow, spotty process, black person enters and sees depending on voluntary action, that all the rest of the worship—often resisted and clouded with pers are white, he can't be sure hesitations, whether he really is welcome or not.

That outspoken, silent question, an inherited consequence of past practices, is considered a major obstacle to fuller interracial life in American churches.

To try to overcome it, two all-white, mainly middle-class congregations in Houston, Texas, have decided it is necessary to make clear publicly that they are not only will accept all kinds of people, but definitely want them.

"There is a need to state our position clearly and specifically," says the Rev. Gordon A. Roesch, 28, pastor of Holy Trinity Lutheran church, noting that carried over racial patterns tend to perpetuate barriers, even unintentionally.

Real Barriers

In some cases, the assumed barriers may be real, as some recent conflicts indicate, adding to the general uncertainty about it among those beyond the church doors.

But Houston's Holy Trinity and the Lord of Life Lutheran church, led by the Rev. Kurt E. Johnson, 28, plan advertising and visitation campaigns specifically to invite blacks, browns and others of all socio-economic categories.

"We want people of all walks of life to come in because they can have a real piece of the power structure," says Pastor Johnson, pointing out that the objective is not just token integration, but full-gauged community service.

Both congregations have formally approved taking the initiative in the matter, with advertising expected to begin about April 1. "Success will come only if we have a valid program to serve blacks and whites," says Pastor Roesch.

More Ferment

The unusual campaign, described by the Houston Chronicle's religion editor Janice Law as possibly the first of its kind in American Protestantism, points up the continuing ferment on the issue, especially in the South.

Gradually, here and there, some formerly all-white Southern congregations have become interracial, to varying degrees.

At another Atlanta church, Calvary United Methodist, a black pastor, the Rev. Henry Joyner Jr., was installed last summer at the request of the previously all-white congregation.

A Southern Baptist spokesman says indications are "that a growing number of churches have an open-door policy, and have accepted black members."

Three large Southern Baptist churches in Dallas—First Baptist, Gaston Avenue Baptist and suburban First Baptist at Oak Cliff—last year began taking in Negro members for the first time.

Another church, First Baptist in Del Rio, Texas, elected a black man a deacon. Although mainly white, it as about 20 black members. Southern Roman Catholic congregations are now "open to anyone," says a study by the Southern Regional Council. In Protestantism, North and South, most congregations remain mostly white, or black, even though policies affirm inclusiveness.

They formed a new congregation last December, the Baptist Church of the Covenant, including blacks.

Others Interested

Other Southern congregations have become fully integrated in recent years, such as East Lake Methodist church at Atlanta, Ga. It has about 100 white members, 200 blacks and a broad, firm inclusiveness.

LCUSA Official Asks Congress To Back All War Objectors

NEW YORK — A Lutheran church executive has asserted that the Supreme Court's recent ruling against selective conscientious objectors should not deter Congress from enacting legislation in behalf of potential draftees who oppose all wars or a particular war.

In a follow-up to his criticism of the court's 8-1 decision on the issue, Dr. C. Thomas Spitz Jr., general secretary of the Lutheran Council in the USA, wired his views to congressional leaders in the nation's capital.

The United States, he warned, "cannot afford to continue a policy toward selective conscientious objectors which sends them into exile or prison or which forces them into a total pacifist position untrue to their convictions."

Effects of Teen-Age Voting

As it becomes apparent that the vote of eighteen-year-olds will be recognized for all elections throughout the country and not merely for those involving federal office as declared recently by the United States Supreme Court, there has been concern in some university towns over what the impact might be. Actually the issue of student voting where and its effect, has been around a long time. A lot of college and university students are over the legal age of 21. But this year, when opposition to the war is still brewing and when demonstrations, sit-ins and hopefully bombings have become old-fashioned, it may be that a lot more students will recognize what may indeed be a considerable political leverage in some areas.

Entirely aside from the age restrictions, as far as voting in other than federal elections are concerned, several states have other regulations that have held down student voting in the past and may in the future. In Ohio, where there is an increasing drive among Kent State students to push for votes, a regulation requires that a student must establish a "permanent residence" in the college town if he wishes to vote there, something which may be difficult to do. Alabama requires prospective student voters to own property or hold jobs in the particular community where they want to cast their ballots. Wisconsin currently requires six months residence in the state but only ten days in a particular voting district with no definition of how that residency is to be established. However, a bill introduced in the Wisconsin Legislature would require a change of residency on driver's licenses and income tax returns before such residency could be established.

It seems quite likely that eventually cases involving such residency requirements will reach the United States Supreme Court. In 1965 the court prohibited Texas from denying permission to vote locally to military personnel temporarily stationed in the state. If military personnel cannot be considered transients for voting purposes, it is somewhat difficult to understand how students can be either. The difference may well be the attitude of both citizens and court justices toward members of the military and toward students and this changes from decade to decade.

There are obvious problems if students are permitted to vote in the areas in which the institution is located. This may be particularly true in small towns with colleges with large enrollments although the specter of wild-eyed liberal, free-loving, pot-smoking youngsters taking over small town city halls seems a little far out for credulity. There is the apparently unjust possibility that a majority in such areas can vote in large bond issues and other financial programs for which they may never have to pay a penny. But this is also true of military personnel or for non-property owners in some areas. The poll tax was a means to control this and that is apparently long since gone just as is the old British standard that high ranking officers had to be aristocrats and wealthy since they had more to lose if a war were lost.

Currently there are some suits from students over 21 demanding the right to vote and to run for office in their particular college or university communities. The fear that a large mass of young people can seriously change and perhaps damage a community's governmental structure may be real enough and based on fact. But to a large extent it is also the fault of their elders who have failed to cross that generation gap and have worked so hard to isolate young people in a number of ways. And there is still no way of determining whether the more conservative or the more liberal will win out on the campuses. It probably depends upon which group puts out the most effort and the hardest sell.

Nationally the more youthful vote may have a greater impact. And this may be decided as to whether the new young voters cast ballots as their parents do. The same sort of question was raised when women received the privilege of voting and, sad to say in many cases, there hasn't been much of a change.

Smuggling a Way of Life in the Philippines

Smuggling has been a way of life for people in many countries. A folk opera on Ireland actually glamorized this particular way of making a living. Generally smuggling has been accepted because of oppressive governmental regulations and the hard facts of not merely making a living but staying alive.

And smuggling is still a major way of life in the Philippines nor is there really much governmental effort to curb it.

Cigarettes are a major item. There are blue seals on some packages but buyers pay little if any attention to this restriction. Small boys peddle one cigarette at a time in the streets of most Philippine cities.

But there are more expensive items regularly smuggled into the Philippines and without much opposition. In fact freighters anchor in Manila Bay and the illegal material, ranging all the way from television sets to nylons, are taken ashore at night in order to establish or maintain some sort of appearance of legality as far as the officials are concerned. A major source is Hong Kong where anything goes anyway. But an interesting point is that while smuggling into a chain of islands with more than a hundred thousand miles of coastline should be comparatively simple, most of the smuggled items come through the major ports.

Americans may grumble and complain but they are not immune to charges. American servicemen lately have found a new source of tax deduction. They will sell their cars — and other items — and then claim the articles were stolen and take a tax deduction. Since stealing is common in the Philippines — even a fire engine was stolen from Clark Air Base and disappeared into the barrios — it is difficult to determine whether a theft charge is accurate or not. Probably it is generally assumed that the claim is true.

Philippine officials hesitate to invade areas where known smuggling occurs because smugglers are rather quick at shooting back and most Filipinos carry revolvers anyway. There have been strong cutbacks in smuggling in some areas in line with the President's Anti-Smuggling Action Center provisions. But, as a leader points out pragmatically, "as long as there is poverty and unemployment, you cannot erase smuggling. The most a country can do is minimize it to a degree that is acceptable to the national economy."

Unfortunately the continued extent of smuggling in the Philippines contributes to the shaky economy and the ever-present threat of real revolution. Probably it is not as instrumental in the island's declining financial situation and the unrest among the poor as is the failure of the government to enact successful land and economic reforms. But it is an element and so far there is little sign that it is declining.

County Bee Keepers Organize

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for March 18, 1871.

At a meeting of the Bee Keepers, calling pursuant to notice, for the purpose of organizing a Bee Keeper's Association of Outagamie County, held at the office of Judge George Myers, on Monday, March 18, Mr. A. H. Hart was called to the chair, and W. B. May elected secretary, pro tem.

On motion of members present, Messrs. Z. C. Fairbanks, J.S. Buck and R. Z. Mason were appointed to the committee to draft a constitution. This committee submitted and the meeting adopted a constitution. (Excerpts) The Association was to be known as the Bee Keeper's Association of Outagamie County, Wis. The object was to promote scientific bee culture by forming a strong bond of union among bee-keepers, for discussion of subjects relating to the interests of Agriculture. This Association shall be auxiliary to, and co-operative with the Outagamie County Agricultural Society.

Dr. R. Z. Mason was nominated and elected President; Z. C. Fairbanks, Secretary, and A. H. Hart was elected Treasurer.

North Vietnam Seems Cool To Conquest of Cambodia

BY ROBIN MANNOCK
Associated Press Writer

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — North Vietnam, whose troops have been roaming northeast Cambodia almost at will, do not seem interested at the moment in conquering all of this war-torn country.

Hanoi's defense minister, Vo Nguyen Giap, is believed holding to his longtime view of Cambodia as a supply corridor and rear base area where his men can store ammunition, build hospitals, rear headquarters and bivouacs.

Available evidence indicates that Giap is mainly concerned about any threat to his lines of communication.

Most of Hanoi's sanctuary areas, set up since last spring when U. S. and South Vietnamese troops blasted its bases along the Cambodian border, are in the eastern and northeastern parts of the country.

Protect Supply Routes

Most of the 45,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers now in Cambodia are poised to parry any attempt to disrupt the flow of supplies from Communist command depots to battlefields in South Vietnam.

Serving as a hub for enemy movements are the rubber plantations of Chup and Mimot southeast of Kompong Cham and the lands on either side of the Mekong River northwards to Kratie.

From this point, Hanoi can dispatch men and supplies southward to Vietnam or westward to attack the Cambodian heartland.

While it is generally agreed that conquest of all Cambodia is the eventual aim of the Communist command, the amount of men and material needed to seize the countryside and topple the Phnom Penh government is probably more than Cambodia is worth to Hanoi, for the present at least.

There is also the fact that an all out enemy assault in Cambodia would probably bring thousands of South Vietnamese troops swarming through the country with massive U. S. air support.

Hanoi might find itself trapped between the forces of Cambodia and South Vietnam while substantial numbers of U. S. troops remain in South Vietnam to help protect that country.

Population is Hostile

Capturing Phnom Penh, a city of almost two million people, would require Hanoi to govern a population thoroughly hostile to all Vietnamese, North or South.

The North Vietnamese have had little success so far in winning Cambodia's Khmers over to their side. Most of the estimated "Red Khmers" who are fighting on Hanoi's side, are illiterate peasants, ill-suited to the task of administration.

Also, a quick over-all victory in Cambodia would almost certainly force the winners to restore Cambodia's ousted chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk whose name is rarely mentioned in Communist propaganda in this country.

In view of all these factors, it is generally believed that the Communist command strategy is concentrating on preemptive strikes to prevent Cambodia from gaining enough strength to pose a threat to Hanoi's activities on its soil.

Parents Should Stress Duties of Bicyclists

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

The editorial, "Bicycles Have Same Rights On Road as Automobiles," by Mr. Blick, was a good and timely one. I feel, however, it did not go far enough, nor stress strongly enough the view from "the other side of the wheel."

How many times have those of us who drive had to swerve to avoid hitting a bicycle during night hours? How many times have we seen bicycles riding along sidewalks or shooting without hesitation through stop signs or signals? How many bicycles have we seen that did not have proper lighting and reflective devices?

My point is: Most bicycle riders are fortunate enough to have parents. Most parents spend hundreds of dollars raising each child. If one parent of each child would spend one hour explaining the responsibilities of riding, and a few dollars to see the child had a mechanically safe bicycle with proper lighting and reflective devices, wouldn't it make it a lot safer in our cities for drivers, riders, and pedestrians?

Wisconsin Report
Idea of Proxmire Presidential Bid Is Rapidly Fading

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The presidential nomination boomlet for Sen. William Proxmire is likely to expire quietly soon for lack of nourishment, present or prospective combined with the circumstance that Wisconsin is an early presidential primary state that can be ignored by the actual contenders among the national Democratic leaders only with acute peril.

This is not to say that Richard Cudahy, the principal author of the Proxmire-for-President idea, was not quite sincere when he sent up his little trial balloon some months ago. But the responses thus far, or more accurately, the lack thereof, and the necessities confronting genuine candidates such as Muskie and Bayn and McGovern and possibly Humphrey and Sen. Hughes of Iowa make the idea of a Proxmire candidacy untenable and conceivably harmful to him.

The "favorite son" candidate within a state is familiar in American politics. Usually it is a play for the politicians in states with uncommitted delegations to gain time to assess trends, in a presidential year, and, more particularly, to hoist themselves on the bandwagon at the strategic and rewarding moment.

In some of the presidential primary states it is sometimes used for the glorification of a favorite dark horse to avoid early decisions by the men of the local establishment, to evade the liberal intentions of the primary laws by arranging uncommitted delegations, and occasionally, to suit the convenience of leading national contenders in both parties.

That was what happened in Wisconsin when the new Presidential Primary Board managed somehow to omit both Sen. Kennedy and Gov. Rockefeller from the Wisconsin primary list in 1968 in contravention of the plan purpose of a revised statute.

Past aspirants tended to avoid tangling with a serious "favorite son." But such courtesy is not likely here next year, as Proxmire informed Wisconsin voters the other day when he said he had no intention of running merely as a local favorite.

What was almost surely meant is that his candidacy won't deter Muskie and others. In a fight with them even on his own ground he would likely emerge embarrassed in spite of his justified pride in his 71 per cent vote-collecting triumph last fall.

Would Arouse Opposition

Some friendly critics are telling Proxmire that if he enters here he would be merely a "spoiler," and so muddy the results that the vote among the serious contenders would be meaningless. He would run the risk of repudiation even by some of his own allies, including organized labor, in spite of his whooper of last November. The AFL-CIO's John Schmitt has already telegraphed that signal.

As an evident prelude to renunciation, Proxmire says that he has no desire to be that "spoiler" in Wisconsin and that if circumstances persuade him to put his name into competition, it will be in primaries across the country. Is that a realistic possibility?

It is almost surely not. The senator is a professional politician. He likes his affairs to be tidy and well planned in advance. To run in California, Illinois, Minnesota, Oregon, Nebraska, and the rest, he must soon have preparations well under way, as the serious candidates have.

Is he prepared to make the laborious effort for the multi-million dollar campaign fund needed? There is no sign. Would he risk being ignored by the national press and the polls, and being remembered as an also ran? Those who know him say no.

Now's Time to State Views on Parochial

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

On March 3 I attended the Joint Education Committee hearing on Bill 138-S (aid to private and parochial schools) in Madison. The proponents came in large numbers, well prepared and organized, all wearing large yellow buttons for identification. The galleries were filled with pupils bussed in from Catholic schools (300 from one Fond du Lac school alone.) They were given the first one and one-half hour to present their case. Their three principle arguments were (1) need (2) right to select own schools and (3) their right to their share of tax monies for education.

These points were ably refuted by those opposing the bill, but some of the pro-witnesses such as Mayor Tilleman and Rev. Mark Schommer of Green Bay did not stay to listen to them.

Point 1: Need. The Catholic Church refuses to divulge its financial status. Others who ask for financial assistance (welfare) must declare their assets so a proper evaluation can be made of actual need. One Catholic young man who was testifying for the opposition called for such a declaration by the church before any aid should be considered. He was rebuked by one member of the committee and told that the tax free holdings of the Catholic Church was none of his business or anyone else's.

Point 2: Right to select own schools. This right has never been denied. For special privileges, one usually has to pay a price. The state should in no way finance discrimination for religious or social reasons.

Point 3: Their right to a share of tax monies set aside for education. Free public schools are provided to educate every child between the ages of 5 and 18. Now if people prefer not to avail themselves of these public schools, should they be rewarded with grants of money collected from the general public? What of all the single taxpayers and couples who never had children to go to any schools? Are they given a tax refund? Our police and fire departments stand ready to perform a service when needed. Does anyone not requiring their services apply for and receive a "refund"? One of the witnesses opposed to parochial aid had a very comprehensive report on the population trends for our entire state. Births are on the decline and in some instances where parochial schools have closed, it was for lack of pupils, not money. She also showed how pupils from parochial schools could quite easily be absorbed into the public school system if necessary. The argument that large scale closing of parochial schools would swamp the public schools is merely scare tactics to win support for parochial aid and not an actual fact. They had no intention of closing all their schools. The reason they established their schools in the first place, (to teach religion) still prevails.

If a real need is proven, a better way to aid private and parochial schools would be to give state assistance to only accredited schools, in the same way the state assists our public schools. The money should go to only the schools that qualify and not to individuals.

If you oppose Bill 138-S, don't expect a referendum in which to vote your disapproval. It is very unlikely one will be held. Your only recourse as things now stand, is to write or phone your state representatives and urge them to vote against this bill when it comes up for passage in April. How else can they know your wishes unless you tell them? Do it now. Don't leave it to the other fellow. Each one of you has an obligation to act responsibly and immediately.

Glamorized Rock Serves As Unusual Paperweight

BY CAPPY DICK
A flat rock picked up along the shore last summer or this spring can be turned into a glamorous object by attaching on a coffee table, as a paperweight on a desk or displayed on a whatnot shelf. It's most practical use, of course, will be as a paperweight.

The first step in undertaking this fun-project is to scrub the rock so it is free of any sand or soil. Oversized seed beads such as are used nowadays to make simple bracelets and necklaces should be assembled. A variety of colors will be desirable. String the beads on strong fishline. Tie a knot in one end of the line. After you have strung enough to go from one side of the rock to the other, tie a knot to keep the beads from sliding off. Then attach the strand to the rock with glue or china cement.

When you have crisscrossed several strands, glue felt to the bottom of the rock. This will complete the project and the glamorized rock will be ready for display.

Monday: Lots more good fun for every boy and girl!

Jingo Recommends 2 Hortonville Events

Lighthearted Musical at 2 p.m. Sunday,
Music Department Concert Tuesday Night

Y JINGO Sunday in the Hortonville High Auditorium. Miss Kay Jacobson, if Fox Cities theatergoers are looking for an enjoyable program, should be in the audience. Jingo suggests taking in the Hortonville High School cast and crews for their enthusiastic production of "Anything Goes," a musical that's both perennially popular and lighthearted. The music department at Hortonville High School also has a new program on hand next Tuesday at 8 p.m. When the school's high school bands and jazz/rock ensemble give their program, it's a chance for the school to prove their ability and eagerness to please. The show is onstage at 2 p.m. Smoker, from the faculty of Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh. Smoker is the director of the award-winning Jazz Ensemble at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh. It's a great event for the young people at Hortonville since Smoker will be at the school during the day, working with music students. Tickets for the Tuesday concert will be available at the door.

As for the program that night, here's the rundown that came Jingo's way. Judge for yourself. He'll be featured with the Hortonville High Concert Band in "Dramatic Essay," by Clifton Williams. He also will work on a jazz arrangement of "After You've Gone."

The Polar Bear Band will have him doing Leroy Anderson's famous and tricky "Trumpeter's Lullaby" with members.

With the Jazz/Rock Ensemble he'll be performing as both soloist and "one of the boys." This jazz and rock group is only in its second year, yet it has earned first division ratings at several festivals. It won a first place trophy in Class B at the Oshkosh Jazz Festival in November of 1970.

Jingo thinks these programs sound excellent enough to make people head for Hortonville both Sunday afternoon and Tuesday night. How about it?

Six FVTL Courses to Be Offered in Village

LITTLE CHUTE — The Fox Valley Technical and Adult Education school will sponsor six spring classes in the village this year, with registrations being accepted at the public high school office March 26 through April 8.

Classes scheduled include intermediate clothing, clothing 11, advanced clothing, knitting, fashions in lingerie and swim wear construction.

Joan Kennedy Plays Piano, Steals Show

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 Channel 5 — A very pretty blonde in a brown sequined dress playing a short classical selection on the piano steals the Andy Williams Show in its last new offering. She's Joan (Mrs. Edward or Teddy's wife) Kennedy and she plays Debussy's Arabesque and accompanies Andy on the Theme From Love Story. With Henry Mancini conducting the orchestra. Other guests, in a better than average Andy outing, are Jonathan Winters, Charlie Callas, and in bits, Phyllis Diller, Ray Stevens and Mama Cass Elliot.

4:50-5:30 Channels 11-9 — Wide World of Sports covers the Phoenix 150 Indianapolis-Car Race, which is live from Phoenix Indianapolis in this case, describes the cars, not the locale. Mario Andretti, A. J. Foyt and Bobby and Al Unser are in the field.

6:30-7:30 Channels 2-7 — Mission: Impossible repeats its first Latin dictator show of the season, with a plot like all plots but with things going wrong for a change. John Colicos is a man behind an assassination plot and he must be made to believe he has been in a plane crash and has landed on an island peopled with escaped criminals (R).

7:30-8:30 Channel 11 — It's "My Fair Lady" time on The Pearl Bailey Show with Pearl Mae singing "I Could Have Danced All Night," and Douglas Fairbanks Jr. joining her for "I've Grown Accustomed To Her Face." George Kirby offers some more of his good impressions and the Ike and Tina Turner Revue keeps things bouncing.

8:30-9:30 Channels 2-7 — Arnie's boss has a "left-side, back-handed traverse," which turns out to be polo's toughest shot. In other words, he has a problem which becomes Herschel Bernardi's problem: a new loading dock form to replace the promoted Arnie. (R)

8:30-9:30 Channels 2-7 — The Mary Tyler Moore Show could be subtitled "Rhoda's Complaint" because Rhoda's (Valerie Harper) Mrs. Portnoy-like Jewish mother shows up from the Bronx and Rhoda does her best to avoid seeing her. Mary can't understand this and she takes the woman, beautifully played by Nancy Walker into her apartment. (R)

9-10 Channels 2-7 — Mannix gives Gail Fisher her moment in the romantic spotlight. In the hospital with a bullet wound, she meets the man in the room across the hall, a premier of a new African nation marked for assassination.

Reservations Are Open For Adult Vocational Classes at Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — Reservations are open for the adult vocational classes scheduled to begin April 12 at the vocational school. Classes will be held Monday evenings and will run for five consecutive weeks. Deadline for registration is April 8. Classes include family and company meals, knitting, clothing 1, sew with knits, fashions in lingerie, draperies, jewelry, and adventures in antiques.

"BONNIE AND CLYDE"

Rep. Steiger Still Optimistic on Establishing All-Volunteer Army

OSHKOSH — Sixth Dist. GOP Congressman William A. Steiger said today he is optimistic about progress in Congress towards establishing an all-volunteer military service.

"Contrary to local reports," Steiger said, "The Armed Services Committee has given volunteer army supporters a good share of what they asked for in current legislation." Steiger cited as a positive sign Monday's committee vote to accept a bill with pay provisions which are comparable to the Steiger-Matsumaga Legislation.

In keynote remarks to the annual convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Young Republicans, Steiger said, "Newspaper reports on the death of the volunteer army legislation are premature. Extension of the draft does not imply indefinite conscription. It must be remembered that the Gates Commission allowed for a year's transition between enactment of the necessary pay raises and termination of the draft. Since no action was taken on the commission's recommendations in the last session, it may now be necessary to extend the induction authority for one more year."

Steiger added, "In this regard, the fact that the traditionally cautious Armed Services Committee reported only a two-year extension, as opposed to the customary 4-year authority, should be regarded as a sign of the strength behind the movement to end the draft. I am hopeful that action on the floor of the House will reduce this to a one year extension."

For the first time in the modern era a congressional committee has recognized the direct connection between conscription and inadequate military compensation. By virtue of better pay, more sophisticated recruiting, and improved living conditions, we can end the draft, he said.

The complaint that higher pay and allowances for first-term servicemen are too costly to the national budget is unjustified, Steiger feels. "Military pay is currently so low that over 50,000 servicemen qualify for welfare, food stamp usage in military commissaries is rapidly increasing, and many servicemen have to hold down second and third jobs."

Financial Penalty He added, there is simply no logic to a system by which men in uniform who are servicing their country, must be reliant upon HEW and Agriculture Department programs which were designed for the poor and the disadvantaged. Regardless of the draft, the 2.7 billion outlay for military pay is justified so that military service no longer imposes a financial penalty on our men in uniform. This investment will be one of the greatest bargains in American history — to say nothing at all about the price tag on individual liberty," Steiger declared.

"The legislation for an all-volunteer force still has a long way to go. The goal certainly has not been achieved. The package approved by the House Armed Services Committee is a vast improvement over present policy and a strong move in the direction of a successful transition from compulsion to a voluntary system," he said.

"Finally, it seems to me that if we can eliminate the elements of compulsion in the way we fulfill our military manpower requirements, we will have set a powerful example for the rest of American government and society. This, all by itself, should make the effort worthwhile to anybody who claims to cherish our heritage of individual freedom," Steiger concluded.

Pharmacy Board Crackdown

Illegal Rose Hips?

BY BILL HURRIE

NEENAH — The Wisconsin Pharmacy Examining Board is cracking down on what they say are illegal sales of drugs. Rose Hips, senna leaves and vitamin A are the targets.

In Neenah, Health Center, Inc., on Wisconsin Avenue, was visited by inspectors from the board, Kenneth Smith, manager of the store, said the agent came in — without introducing himself — looked around and proclaimed items illegal.

Smith said he had not been served with any papers.

The inspectors also have checked General Nutrition Stores, a health food chain, in Oshkosh and Sheboygan.

Karl W. Marquardt, director of the examining board, said this week that the board was enforcing statutes which forbid the sale of drugs unless there is a licensed pharmacist on duty.

Herb Steger, of the Steger Nutrition Center, 1305 N. Division St., Appleton, said the problem was in the broad definition of drugs. The statutes regulate anything in the U. S. pharmacopoeia, national formulary and homeopathic pharmacopoeia.

That includes wheat germ oil, olive oil, senna leaves, vitamin A and rose hips, Steger says.

Marquardt says it also means synthetic vitamins as well as organic ones. He sees a need for restrictions. He was sure some people had harmed their health by dosing themselves with vitamins, but said he hadn't any documented cases.

However, he expects compliance. The stores will have to stop selling the prohibited items or get a full-time pharmacist.

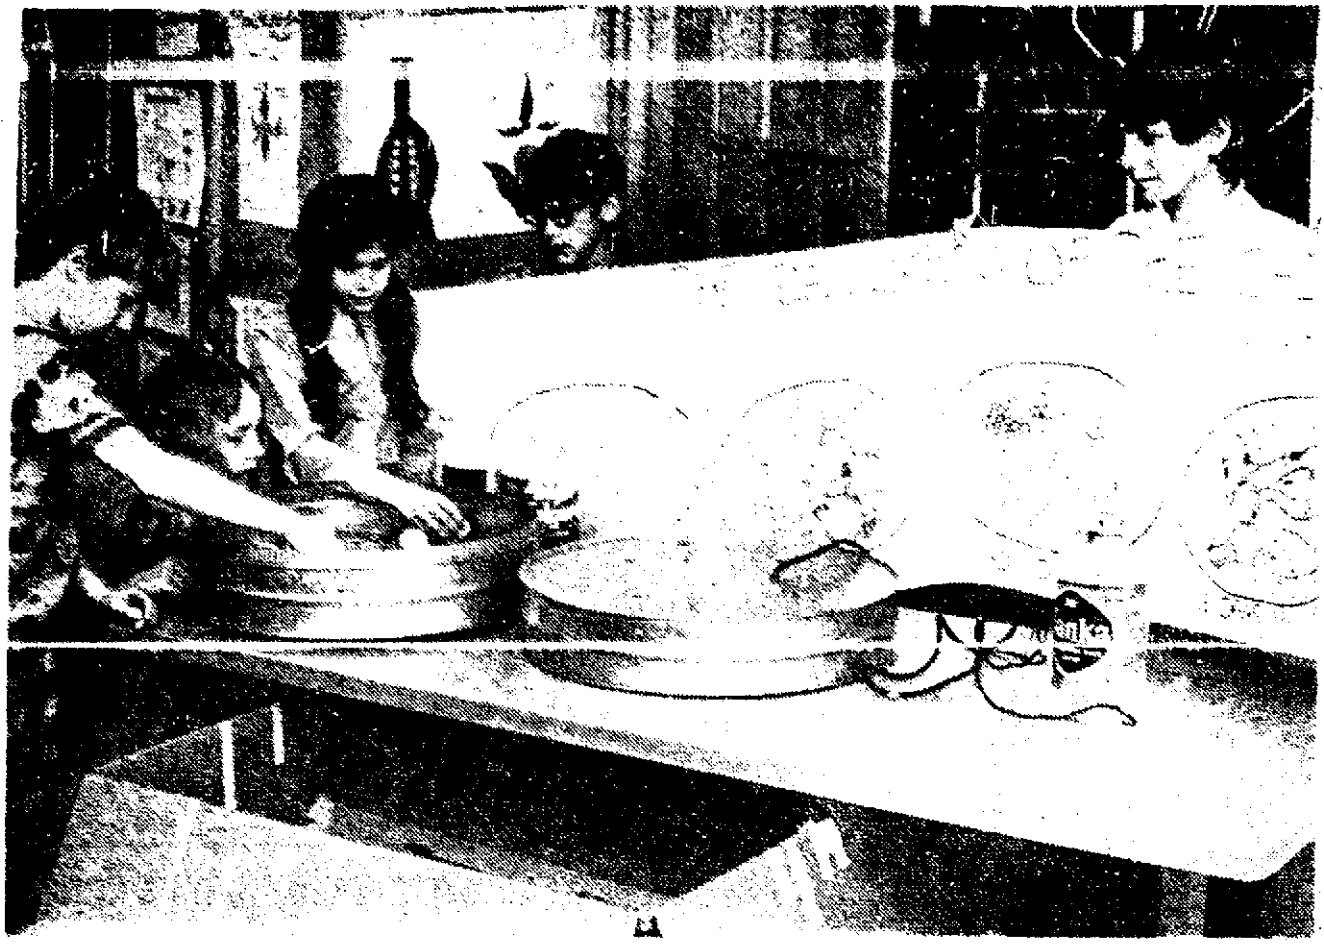

He said he has control only over in-state operations. Mail orders filled from out of state are beyond his jurisdiction. Sears, for example, has vitamins for sale in its catalog.

Marquardt said the inspectors had gone out on their own. "No complaint was made."

A possible way out of the problem may be found in the freedom allowed to proprietary drugs. These patent medicines can be sold without a pharmacist on hand. Marquardt said one of the chain stores was exploring the route.

Steger said the National Nutrition Association had lawyers working on the problem. "The same sort of thing has happened in Utah and Washington and may be happening nationwide quite soon. There will have to be a battle on it, I'm sure."

A suit challenging the statute's broad definition of drugs was turned back by the State Supreme Court in the 1950s. It said the definition was not vague, indefinite, arbitrary or discriminatory.

Menasha Rotarians Promote Twin City Careers

MENASHA — The Menasha Rotary Club will begin a program to provide an opportunity for students at Menasha and St. Mary high schools to become more acquainted with career opportunities in the Twin Cities.

The plan, which was developed by James Taylor as a community service project, Rotarians to volunteer a day or job opportunities in 23 fields from automation to veterinary medicine. Taylor said in a talk to the students.

"Each field has many classifications, but they are alike in only one respect; that is, you must show the interest. We'll be proud and pleased to help you by sharing our experiences and knowledge of these careers with you. Just give us a chance," he said.

The student will have an opportunity to inquire about and observe the type of employment skills required and preparation needed for any of several levels of employment in area businesses.

Taylor said the project is intended to show in a real way to the student that those in the community business world are interested in him; that there are many types of opportunities within a given business or industry; that his high school education is a minimum preparation for a working career; that industry and diligent attitude are valuable attributes and that results and success are dependent upon individual effort when given an opportunity.

The students will write their impressions of their visit and the business people will write an evaluation of the students.

Taylor said the theme, "bridging the gap," was used by Pat Lloyd, district governor, in his address to the club last year.

"Giving ourselves as persons rather than purses was used in an earlier suggestion for community service," Taylor said.

This plan outline uses both of these themes in developing a program which will bring the experience of age in contact with the confused enthusiasm of the youth," he said.

Subsidy Could Save Valley's Rail Service

MADISON (AP)—A state subsidy is being suggested as one way to restore rail passenger service to Madison and the Fox River Valley—service that is threatened to be cut off May 1.

State Transportation Secretary Norman Clapp disclosed Friday a state subsidy was one possibility being studied. A major unanswered question would be the cost of such state aid, he cautioned.

The National Rail Passenger Corp. (Railpax) announced this week many Wisconsin cities would lose service entirely. Included were Madison, Green Bay, Fond du Lac, Appleton, Oshkosh, Superior, Janesville and Prairie du Chien.

Clapp said that for the state to become involved, it would have to agree to pay two-thirds of the losses resulting from the stored passenger service. A state subsidy, however, would take time to arrange, Clapp said, and would not prevent a discontinuance of Service May 1.

Ald. Kalata Claims Tax-Sharing Plan Favors Democrats

The chairman of an Appleton City Council advisory committee on state legislative proposals says Gov. Patrick Lucey's tax-sharing plan looks like "a subtle form of financial gerrymandering."

Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd), in an outline of business on the agenda of the council's legislative committee, charged that under the Lucey formula, "increased aids would be doled out to communities which have traditionally been Democratic in posture," while Appleton would lose more than $150,000 in state tax funds.

Psychologist To Speak to New Group

NEENAH — The second meeting of the newly organized Fox Valley Association for Children with Learning Disabilities will be at 7 p.m. Monday at the Neenah YWCA.

He also will demonstrate the concept to help parents understand various methods of management and child's behavior at home.

The new group is a nonprofit organization whose purpose is to advance the education and general welfare of a child with normal or potentially normal or above average intelligence who has learning problems arising from perceptual, conceptual or subtle coordinative problems.

A committee headed by Mrs. Peter Skaer to study facilities available in Fox Valley schools for such children has been formed.

City Accused of Unfair Practices

A Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission (WERC) hearing has been scheduled for April 21 into unfair labor practice charges filed Friday by Teamsters Local 563 in connection with deadlocked 1970 contract negotiations between Appleton and some 30 school crossing guards.

The complaints were brought against the city, Ald. Robert Roemer who is chairman of the city council's public safety committee, and Mrs. Leona Bodmer, 816 W. Fifth St., a crossing guard.

The WERC earlier had scheduled another hearing for April 21 on a petition by the crossing guards for a representation election.

Pay Increase

Local 563, as bargaining representative for the crossing guards, alleged that Roemer, acting as an agent for the city, entered into secret negotiations with Mrs. Bodmer in early January.

According to the union complaint, the city last January also informed Mrs. Bodmer that she and other crossing guards would receive a pay increase if they would decertify Local 563 as their agent.

By doing so, the complaint charges, the city sought to and did make Mrs. Bodmer its agent to get Local 563 decertified.

The complaint further charges that since the city began individual negotiations with Mrs. Bodmer, it has refused to recognize and negotiate with Local 563 as the exclusive bargaining agent for the crossing guards.

Roemer, Mrs. Bodmer and the city may file answers to the union complaint no later than April 14.

$39,000 Grant Received

FVTI to Study New Ways to Use Teachers

A $39,000 grant to conduct a study of changing teaching methods and teacher roles has been received by the Fox Valley Technical Institute.

The long-range project calls for complete revision of the institute's curriculum into instructional packages for individualized instruction.

According to Stanley Spanbauer, head of the instructional services division of FVTI, this is a concept of organization geared to make better use of educational personnel.

Teachers are differentiated into various roles and responsibilities to allow for different interests, abilities and ambitions.

The study hopefully will find the best way to eliminate the need for many teachers spending time in nonprofessional or clerical pursuits. The use of paraprofessionals in such areas as reading announcements, taking roll and distributing materials allows the teacher to function in a capacity more suited to his role.

Old Process

"Our teaching staff model has remained the same as it was a century ago — teachers at the bottom of the school hierarchy with professionals at higher levels to minister to their difficulties," said Spanbauer, while explaining the reasons for attempting to implement the change.

The old process of a teacher standing in front of her class makes little sense in any school — but particularly in vocational-technical programs, Spanbauer said.

"The teacher of nursing, woodworking, mechanics or typing doesn't need a cadre of professional educators above him to resolve his problems. In fact, in most cases the professionals know less about the subject matter than the teachers," the official stated.

Furthermore, Spanbauer said the current model of education treats all teachers, regardless of their special skills, as interchangeable.

Some Status

"The outstanding school teacher, the untrained and incompetent one who got tenure while no one was looking, and the first-year teacher whose ability remains untested, all receive exactly the same responsibilities under the current structure," he maintained.

"And what's more, the beginning instructor enters the classroom with the knowledge that if he remains a teacher, he will keep the same tasks and possess the same status for his entire 40 years."

The bitter irony, the educator said, is that "we pretend to students, parents and ourselves that everyone is getting a similar education."

"And yet, all teachers are not equally competent, and those who are better qualified never get anywhere unless they go into administration — away from the students."

List Weaknesses

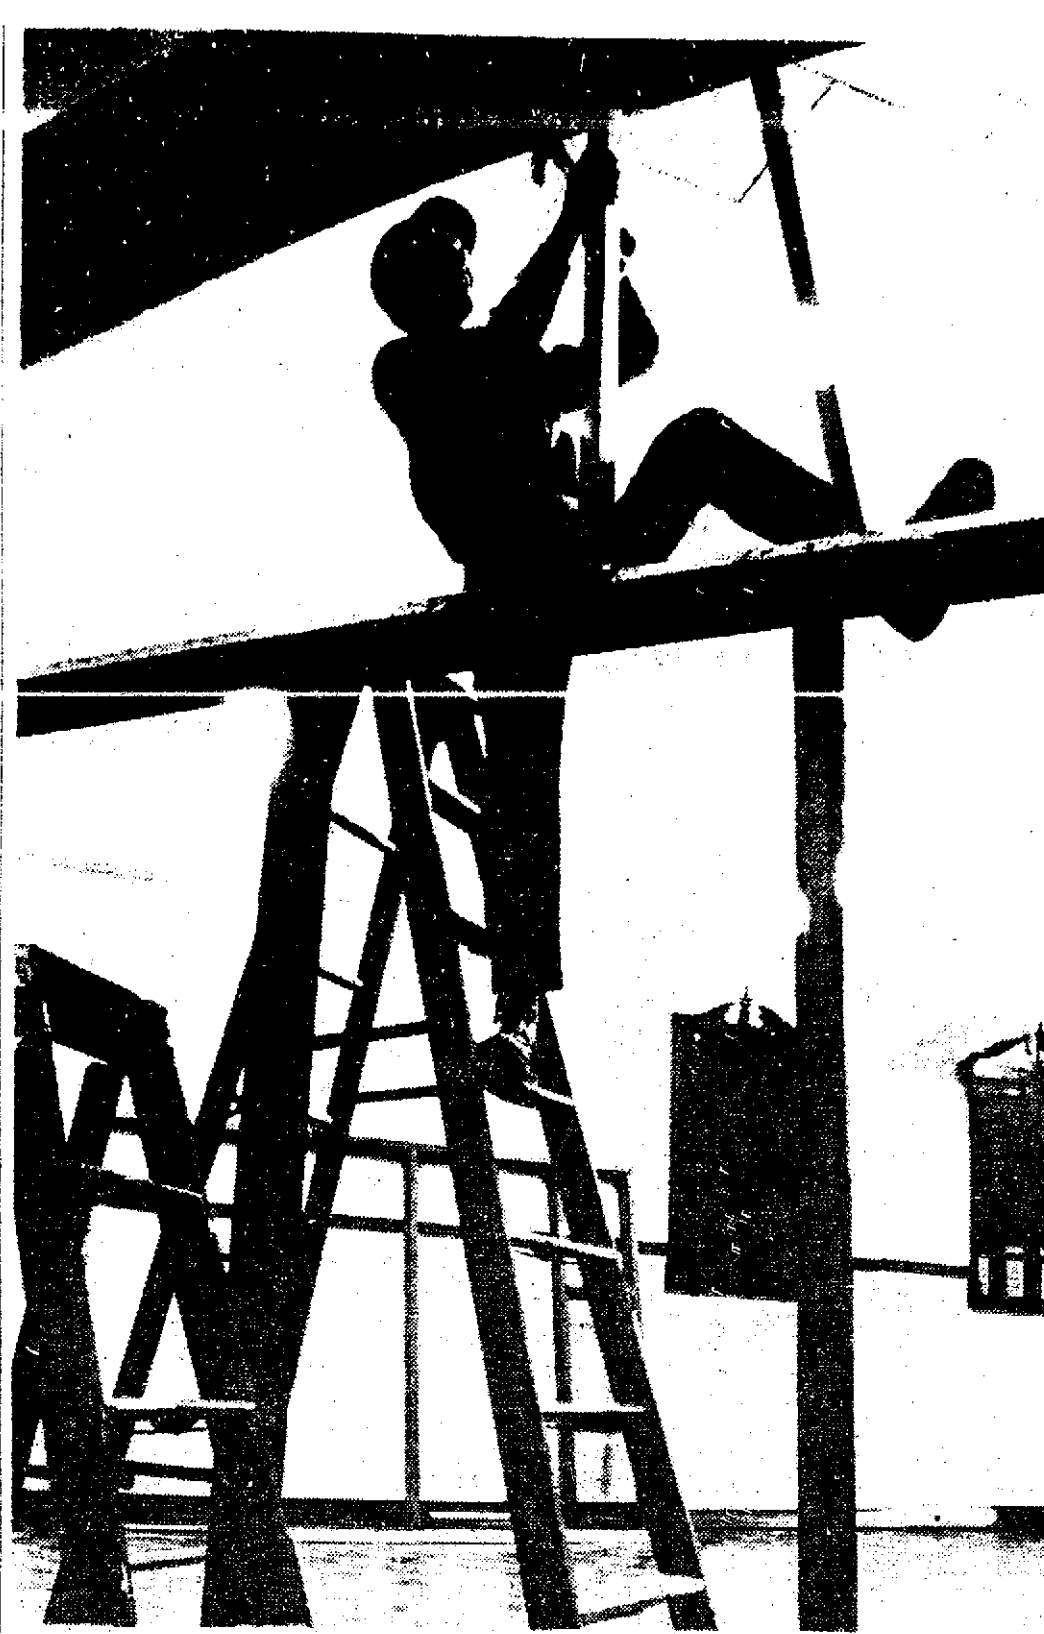

Spanbauer listed what he thinks are other weaknesses in the staffing program.

— Current models of teacher-staff use have not kept pace with changes in the qualifications of teachers.

— Promotions are not influenced by students.

— Teaching fails to attract its fair share of outstanding people because of the other weaknesses.

— The lack of challenge, responsibility and compensation in the profession is driving the

County Could Lose Aids if Park Area Used for Landfill

The 149-acre addition to Plamann Park could not be used for a county sanitary landfill site and still qualify for state and federal funds, the Outagamie County board's zoning committee learned Friday.

In a letter to the committee, Alvin Nelson, of the Department of Natural Resources' aids division, said that land purchased with federal LAWCON and state ORAP funds could only be used for park purposes.

He said if the county wanted to use a portion of the land for landfill, it could detach that amount of land from its funding application and resubmit the remaining land for the matching funds. However, he noted, the county then would take the chance of not getting any funds at all.

Educators Attack Lucey's Proposal To Cut School Aids

MADISON — Educators from throughout the state demonstrated to the Legislature's Joint Finance Committee Friday that the governor's proposed budget for the state Department of Public Instruction (DPI) gives them emotional problems as they review the effect on their own school district's budgets.

The proposal that calls for an increase in state funding of $135 million came under fire as school administrators attacked the governor's proposal to cut the 70 per cent state reimbursement of the cost of hiring psychologists and social workers, except for those in special classes; his plan to have local districts pick up the $64 million cost of the teachers' retirement and Social Security plans, and his revised school aid formula.

Nearly 50 educators testified and twice that number supported objections to the budget. Only two spokesmen for taxpayers' groups, that normally would be expected to demonstrate a conservative stance toward a Democratic governor's spending plans, supported the budget generally.

The most vocal and organized opposition spoke to Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's recommendation that the reimbursement for the cost of specialists in psychology and social work be limited to those employed to work directly with the educationally disabled in special classes. Lucey based his recommendation on the fact that the law creating the program was designed to provide the services to those in special classes, but its interpretation and administration had been expanded to support all such specialists.

Help to Handicapped

Douglas Ritchie, superintendent of the Madison Public Schools, told the committee that the trend in helping the educationally handicapped is now toward integrating such students with other students and that the governor's rationale would deprive these "integrated" children of the services they need in order to be permitted to continue in regular classrooms.

The governor's proposal, Ritchie said, would cost the Madison public schools $110,000 a year in lost reimbursements that probably could not be afforded by the district.

A spokesman for the school psychologists' organization, James Buckley, told the committee that 75 per cent of the Cooperative Educational Services Agency (CESA) districts who now hire specialists to share among member districts could not afford the loss of funds and that the programs would undoubtedly be dropped.

Rep. Larry Swoboda, D-Luxemburg, a teacher in the Southern Door school district attacked the broad range of proposals made by the governor that would result in four-fifths of the schools in Door County losing aids. "Once you take the aids away, the services are never brought back," he said, referring to the psychologists and social workers as well as the other programs he predicted would have to be cut from area schools.

The change in policy would result in a cut of $3.8 million from the DPI request of $3.5 million for psychologists and social workers.

The proposal to shift the burden of paying the "employers' share" of the state teachers retirement fund and Social Security benefits from the state to the local districts was described in veiled terms as a politically harmful idea that would hurt teachers throughout the state and a plan that would cost some districts excessive amounts.

Henry Weinick, executive director of the Wisconsin Education Association, told the committee, "44,000 teachers violently oppose the fact that the employers cost of retirement would be shifted to the local school districts." Weinick predicted that 140 of the state's school districts would lose money because of the shift, told the committee they have despite the governor's proposal to increase state aids to local school districts.

Swoboda termed the proposal "regressive" because it adds more burdens to the property taxpayers.

Don't Decrease

Eric Becker of the Wisconsin Association of School District Administrators told the committee that letters and phone calls from his group's membership in Brookfield, indicate, "We think the state's fiscal partnership should be increased rather than decreased" and that the retirement plan should not be shifted, on, on, on. . . . I can't find the one we support. I'm sure there argument, David Grimm, Racine, president of the Wisconsin Taxpayer's Conference, told the committee he endorsed the retirement shift as a proposal that will show the local taxpayers recognize the improvements the governor's budget does provide.

He cited the governor's proposal that the state pick up $2.2 million in the nonfederal costs of school lunch programs; repays the sum out of general funds directly to the retirement fund.

As a lonely opponent to the school administrators, Grimm also endorsed Lucey's proposal to limit state school aids to those districts that have costs of 100 per cent of the state average per pupil cost rather than the present level to 110 per cent.

The department had requested schools primarily.

Fall Kills Co-ed

OSHKOSH (AP)—An Oshkosh State University co-ed fell to her death from the window of her seventh floor dormitory room early today, authorities said.

The victim, Miss Mary D. Mayer, 20, a junior from Wauwatosa, lived at Gruenhagen Hall on the OSU campus.

Winnebago County Coroner Duane Moore said a string of blankets and sheets tied together dangled from the open window of the young woman's room. He said he was temporarily ruling the death accidental pending further investigation.

A couple walking near the dormitory saw Miss Mayer fall. Moore said they are apparently the only witnesses to the incident which occurred about 2 a.m.

Moore said his investigation was continuing and that he would defer a formal ruling until after he had completed his questioning of other persons living in the dormitory and friends of the victim.

The coroner said preliminary questioning led him to believe that Miss Mayer was regarded by classmates as somewhat a loner but generally good natured.

University officials were not immediately available for comment.
